

OHIO ENDORSING ITS FAVORITE SON TODAY

ALSO HANDS HIM THE SIX DELEGATES AT LARGE FROM STATE UNDOING PRI-MARY VICTORY.

CONVENTION ADJOURNS

Until July to Nominate State Ticket—Roosevelt Leaders Did Not Have Anything to Say About Matter at All.

Columbus, Ohio, June 4.—President Taft won in the fight for Ohio's six delegates-at-large to the republican national convention today by a vote of 390 1/2 to 361 1/2. The first actual test of delegates gave Taft a victory by a vote of 383 1/2 to 350 1/2 when the majority report was adopted. On the minority report endorsing Col. Roosevelt, Cuyahoga county (Cleveland) voted 45 for Taft, 8 for Roosevelt. Montgomery county (Dayton) gave its delegation of 29 for Taft. Lucas county (Toledo) gave its solid delegation of 22 for Roosevelt. The convention decided to conclude the present session with the election of the six delegates-at-large to the Chicago convention, then hold a recess stated convention July 7 to name a state ticket. The convention adopted the report of the credentials committee seating eleven Taft delegates that had been contested.

Theodore Burton, WHO HANDLED TAIT'S CAMPAIGN IN OHIO.

Confusion broke out when Walter S. Brown of Toledo, manager of Roosevelt's Ohio campaign, was given the floor and urged the adoption of the minority report. A. N. Rodway of Cleveland protested that Brown was not a delegate and asked that the Roosevelt manager to leave the hall. Delegates from Brown's home county, Lucas, declared him a duly elected delegate. The first contest was precipitated by the report of the committee on resolutions, the majority of whom recommended the endorsement of the administration of President Taft. J. Meade Muskie of Chillicothe presented a minority report urging that the name of Col. Roosevelt be substituted. No speaker was given full opportunity to express himself owing to constant interruption from the two factions on the floor. The majority report endorsing President Taft's administration was adopted.

WILSON MEN FIGHT UNIT RULE IN OHIO

Harmon Forces Will Contend for Undivided State Delegation for Governor at Democratic Convention.

Toledo, O., June 4.—Governor Judson Harmon faces a bitter fight on the adoption of unit rule in the Ohio democratic state convention which is to meet for organization this evening and adjourn until tomorrow when six delegates at large to the Baltimore convention will be elected and a state ticket nominated. His friends insist he is entitled to the undivided vote of the state's 48 delegates in the democratic national convention for the reason he defeated Woodrow Wilson in the recent presidential preference primaries. The Wilson forces insist they should not be bound by instruction for Harmon under the unit rule.

DESTROYED BRIDGES PREVENT A BATTLE

Engagement Between the Federal and Rebel Troops Near Chihuahua Expected Next Week.

El Paso, June 4.—The main forces of federal and rebel in the vicinity of Chihuahua are not likely to meet for a week more because of the destruction of portions of the Mexican Central railway. General Villa and Huigob with a large force of federal cavalry are moving towards Chihuahua from the southwest, their flank movement being extended to harness General Orozco's rear, when the main columns of Gen. Huerta are brought north of the railway. Another flank movement is said to have been begun by the federal from the east. The federal have sent a large force of cavalry westward to check General Villa and Huigob but as yet no men have started eastward. General Orozco expects the main engagement to be fought at Bachinua, a mountain peak 45 miles south of Chihuahua which is now fortifying.

D., has been selected by Senator La Follette to second the latter's nomination at the Chicago convention. Michael R. DECISIVE VICTORY TO SENATOR KENYON AT IOWA PRIMARIES Returns Today Indicate That He Defeated La Fayette Young by Big Majority—Democratic Vote Light.

Des Moines, Iowa, June 4.—Returns collected today from five hundred and twenty precincts in the state outside of Des Moines and Polk county showed that United States Senator W. S. Kenyon of Port Dodge received 37,000 votes and La Fayette Young of Des Moines approximately 18,000 votes in those precincts in yesterday's primary. In Polk county with four Des Moines precincts and fourteen other precincts still uncounted, Senator Kenyon led by 3,415. The total vote is thus far tabulated in Polk county as 4,855 and that of La Fayette Young as 3,510. It will be late today before the returns from the majority of the precincts have been compiled. The governorship contest on the republican ticket was extremely close although George W. Clark held the lead in the returns today. Campaign managers for P. G. Holden declared he would be proclaimed winner. Clark's friends placed his possible plurality over Holden at more than 10,000. The democratic vote throughout the state was the lightest that has been recorded in a number of years. John Hamilton on the fact of the incomplete returns lead over E. G. Bunn of Mason City for the democratic nomination for governor. In making the analysis of the primary vote yesterday campaign managers for Mr. Young say that he lost in many of the southern counties of the state where he had greater reason to expect the strongest support. The following statement was made: "We attribute the result to the dissatisfaction of the Iowa delegation caused by Taft carrying the Iowa delegation and then losing his own state and his overwhelming defeat in New Jersey started a tidal wave of progressiveness."

TESTIFIED GOMPERS SENT BRIBE MONEY

Burt Franklin Gives Testimony on Stand in Darrow Case on Cross Examination Today. Los Angeles, June 4.—Samuel Gompers, head of the American Federation of Labor sent direct to Clarence B. Darrow the money which the prosecution alleges was used in the bribery of George N. Lockwood according to Burt Franklin under cross examination today in the trial of Darrow for alleged jury bribery in connection with the McNamara cases. Franklin, said Mr. Darrow, had given him this information. Franklin testified at the same time that Darrow had told him he need not worry about Job Harriman being implicated in the case. Harriman, Darrow told the witness, could account for his visit to the safe deposit vault the morning he secured the $4,000 by the fact that he took out $500 to pay a mortgage said Franklin. Denies Tale. Washington, June 4.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, said that Franklin's testimony in the Darrow trial today, was an absolute falsehood made of whole cloth.

The United States has sent a delegation of nine members to the conference, among them John Hays Hammond of New York, chief wireless inspector of the Department of Commerce, and John R. KERN STARTS FIGHT ON SENATOR LORIMER Case is Brought Actively Before the Senate Today for Two Weeks' Discussion.

Washington, June 4.—Senator Kern's speech today leading the attack on Senator Lorimer's election brings that case actively before the senate where it is likely to be the principal topic of consideration for at least the next two weeks and possibly may prolong the session of congress. Senators Lea and Kenyon who with Mr. Kern are the minority of the Lorimer investigating committee, holding that the Illinois senatorial election was brought about by corruption, are ready to join in the fight against the majority report which completely exonerates Mr. Lorimer. "Others were," said Senator Kern in his speech against Lorimer, "no suggestion by Senator Lorimer or any one on his behalf that the senate had not ample power to direct a re-investigation of the election." Mr. Kern declared that if any of the committee believed that questions being investigated were "res judicata," they were strangely reticent in not mentioning it. "While permitting the continuation of the investigation at a cost of more than $50,000, he refused to concede that the proceedings were analogous to a civil action at law, but argued that if it were the granting of a new trial even on the sole ground of newly discovered evidence it opened the case for a complete re-investigation. "It is now too late for Senator Lorimer to be permitted to urge this remarkable defense," declared Senator Kern. Senator Lorimer occupied a seat near Mr. Kern giving careful attention to his arraignment. There were many visitors in the gallery.

QUICK INSULAR ELECTION HELD IN PHILIPPINES

Manila, June 4.—The general insular election was held today and except for clashes between different classes and parties in this city, the voting was uneventful. The indications are that the nationalists have captured a large majority of the assembly and provincial offices. The most important features in the election was the number of candidates and the large expenditure of money in the campaign.

ELECTION RIOTS IN BELGIUM ALMOST A SMALL REVOLUTION

Even Troops Take Part of Rioters And Attack Police—Many Wounded and Barricaded Erected in Streets.

Brussels, Belgium, June 4.—The post election riots in Belgium has taken on a revolutionary character, following last night's trouble at Liege and other places. The socialist central committee today declared that a general strike would be proclaimed tomorrow. In addition to the trouble at Liege and Verviers where gendarmes fired upon a crowd, killing or wounding over fifty persons, among whom were two children, there was less rioting yesterday and last night at Bruges, Tournai, Ghent, Louvain, Antwerp and in this city. A number of Jesuit colleges and Catholic institutions were attacked by mobs and the windows of the buildings smashed. The gendarmes charged the rioters with broadswords. Tramways were wrecked. In the Place St. Lambert the rioters overturned the street cars and used them as barricades, from behind which they hurled missiles at the police, injuring several. The most serious encounter occurred in the vicinity of the socialist headquarters, known as "Populaire." Firing revolvers in the air, the Protestants advanced slowly through the streets to "Populaire" sucking stores and cafes as they went. After they had arrived at the headquarters several shots were fired from within the place upon the mounted gendarmes in the streets. The commandant thinking the soldiers were about to be overwhelmed, gave the order to fire at will. Several volleys were exchanged, during which a number of persons were killed and twenty others wounded. At Antwerp one battalion of scouts and a section of artillery of the civil guard, joined the manifestations. They rebelled against the police authorities and vented their feelings in demolishing windows. The clerical press demands the dismissal of these troops. At Mons two thousand miners struck today in protest against the maintenance of the present government.

MINNESOTA SOLONS IN EXTRA SESSION

Lawmakers Will Assemble to Enact a State-Wide Primary Law and to Consider Other Matters.

St. Cloud, Minn., June 4.—An extra session of the Minnesota legislature called by Governor A. O. Eklund, will begin today. The principal reason for the extra session is the enactment of a state-wide primary law, including all state officers and for the presidential delegates, but it is evident that several measures in addition will be considered including a suffrage and the reappointment of the legislative and senatorial districts of the state. Both of these measures were taken up at the regular session in 1911, but friends of both now believe they will carry. Commencement Exercises Will Begin Sunday, June 10. Madison, Wis., June 4.—Classes at the University of Wisconsin will close next Thursday preparatory to the final examinations, which will end June 14. Bashford of this city. His subject will be "The Republic of China." Bishop Bashford was graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1873 and took his minister's degree in 1875. BOARDS OF REVIEW UNDER INCOME TAX

Will Be Named in Seventy Counties of State by Tax Commission Early in July.

Madison, Wis., June 4.—Nils P. Haugen, chairman of the state tax commission, announced today that appointments of members of local boards of review under the income tax law will be made public early in July. Under the old assessment laws, if a citizen had a complaint against the assessment of his general property, he appeared before the local board of review to present his claim. These officials had always been selected by the county board. Complaints under the income tax law will be considered by local boards composed of three members selected by the state tax commission. According to the law, they must be taxpayers of the county from which they are chosen. Mr. Haugen said the meetings of these boards will be held the last two weeks in July, and that assessments of the income tax assessors could not be changed by this board except upon specific evidence presented. As there are over seventy counties in the state, the commission will have to choose over 210 officials to serve in this capacity. The law provides that these men shall not receive over $10 per day. From information gained from the tax commission it is quite probable that the members of the board of review in Milwaukee county will be allowed $10 a day for their services, but that outside of the metropolis only $5 a day will be given. In each county the meetings of the board will be held at the court house. If a taxpayer is dissatisfied with the assessment approved by the board of review, he may take the matter to the courts, but until the board has passed upon it he has no standing in court.

LAWRENCE COLLEGE CASE IS AFFIRMED

College Property Not Used for Educational Purposes Shall be Taxed Says the Supreme Court.

Madison, Wis., June 4.—The supreme court of Wisconsin today held that the part of chapter 116 of the laws of 1901 exempting from taxation certain classes of property of educational institutions, is unconstitutional because it violates the rule of uniformity in taxation. The case was that of Lawrence College against Outagamie county. The judgment of the lower court, which held that the taxes of the college were payable to the city of Appleton is affirmed by the supreme court. The decision is an important one for the small colleges of the state, many of which are practically owned by them and not used exclusively for educational purposes must be assessed for taxation.

REPUBLICAN PRIMARY IN WEST VIRGINIA.

Wheeling, W. Va., June 4.—Republicans of West Virginia are holding a state-wide primary today for the selection of candidates for governor and other state officers and several members of the state committee. Spirited contests are on for the gubernatorial nomination and other places on the state ticket, but chief interest centers in the fight for the control of the state organization. Though the primary does not include candidates for the United States senate the results are expected, nevertheless, to have an important bearing on the contest for the seat of United States Senator Clarence Watson, whose successor will be elected by the next legislature.

Washington, June 4.—The new dreadnaught Arkansas met with an accident on her trial trip off the Maine coast today when the "skin" of the ship was badly dented by a reef.

FIGHT ON ROOT HAS DISTURBED LEADERS OF ROOSEVELT BOOM

Even Colonel's Most Ardent Followers Believe He Has Made Serious Mistake.

Chicago, June 4.—Theodore Roosevelt's determination to renew the fight on Senator Elihu Root for temporary chairman and to lead every effort to his defeat when the republican national convention is opened June 18, has caused general unrest among the republican leaders and national committeemen who have already reached Chicago for the pre-convention work. Members of the national committee and leaders in both the Taft and Roosevelt headquarters discuss Colonel Roosevelt's statement with reluctance today. It was apparent that Roosevelt leaders in the west had expected a cessation of the fight against Senator Root, but Alexander H. Revel and Edward W. Sims declared themselves this morning in hearty accord with Colonel Roosevelt in his decision to fight William Barnes, Jr., Senator Root and the entire national committee if necessary. Victor Rosewater of Omaha, acting chairman of the national committee, who arrived this morning, said he believed Colonel Roosevelt's attitude would make no change in the plans of the sub-committee on arrangements which had selected Senator Root for the temporary chairmanship. Mr. Rosewater said this committee's action was final unless some member of the national committee demanded it be renewed by the full committee. The national committee is likely to be the scene of the first fight on the temporary chairmanship. Opening hearings of the contest cases which are to be taken up by the national committee apparently are insured. Acting chairman, Rosewater is himself favorable to such action since President Taft and Col. Roosevelt both have asked for it. Former Senator Charles Dick of Ohio, President Taft's contest attorney said upon his arrival from Washington that he strongly favored the open hearings and Orville McHugh, Roosevelt's contest attorney, long has favored such action. The small group of active political leaders here this morning expectantly was watching trains for the arrival of Senator Dixon, Representatives William B. McKinley, William Barnes, Jr., and some of the other eastern generals in the opposing camp.

ANSWERS STATEMENT MADE BY ROOSEVELT

Earnes Makes Strong Reply to Colonel's Accusation That Rochester Convention Acted in "Bourbon and Reactionary" Manner.

Washington, June 4.—Wm. Barnes, Jr., republican state chairman, today in answer to Colonel Roosevelt's statement of last night, defends the action of the Rochester convention, and says in part: "If the republican party at Chicago, in its convention, desires to follow Mr. Roosevelt's advice and declare that the bill of rights of the constitution endorsed by the Rochester convention are 'Bourbon and reactionary,' then the republican party no longer exists as a force for the preservation of the rights of each individual citizen in America, but has become the placing of a demented ambition which would use the organization of that party as he now openly avows to destroy those principles established by the adoption of the constitution and reaffirmed by the action of the Rochester convention."

The volume contains 184 pages including over 130 cuts, photographs and drawings. It is printed on the best quality of paper and has a black cloth binding stamped with gold. The entire book was published by the Gazette printing company and the best skill of the printer's trade was employed to make the book what it is. SCHOOL PRINCIPAL GIVEN A SURPRISE

Pupils and Teachers Express Their Appreciation of Miss Welch's Service.

On Monday afternoon immediately at the opening of school, the six grades of the Lincoln school assembled in the third grade room where a short miscellaneous program was held. The entire event was a surprise planned for Miss Helen Welch, who has served twenty-three years as principal of that building, this year being her last one. The five grades came together and then word was sent to Miss Welch asking her to join them.

As soon as everyone was in his place, Theodore Davoy of the eighth grade, in behalf of the pupils and teachers presented Miss Welch with a silver-mounted toilet set as a slight token of their appreciation for the faithful service, the helpful suggestions, and kindness rendered them by their principal.

The various grades then gave their musical selections, after which they adjourned to their respective rooms, wishing Miss Welch all the happiness that comes after duty faithfully performed.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. No cure out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give the Harned Ears for any case of deafness caused by catarrh that cannot be cured by Little's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

PIANO FAKES EXPOSED

The National Association of Piano Merchants, at their annual convention in Atlantic City last month, passed the following resolution:

"Was-Is" "Was-Now" Resolution

The convention adopted this resolution:

That any member of the association who, after having received a copy of this resolution, shall at any time, either directly or indirectly, indulge in so-called "Was-Is," "Was-Now" or any form of advertising which deceives or misleads, shall be summarily dropped from membership, and be it further

Resolved, That the secretary of this association is hereby instructed to send a copy of this resolution at once to each and every member of the National Association of Piano Merchants of America.

The following is an excerpt from the paper read by D. C. Harmon:

"A merchant's introduction to the public is through his advertising. Right here is where these inter-disciplines of Amnesia, the 'Special Sale Artists,' get in their dishonest work—through the medium of advertising. There is not a person engaged in the piano business who will say that the advertisements of the 'Special Sale Artists' are honest; on the other hand, we all know that they are detestably dishonest—they are rotten to the core! We all know that such advertisements are detrimental to the entire piano business. It hurts the merchant resorting to the 'Special Sale' schemes, as well as the merchant who is honestly striving to do a legitimate business.

"That the methods of the 'Special Sale Artists' leave a bad impression, is obvious to every person who has given the question any thought. I contend that the merchant who spends his money in honest, legitimate advertising has a right to protest, and protest most vigorously, against ANY person or persons whose advertisements are misleading.

"The pages of a great many of our newspapers are plastered with 'Was and Now' schemes, and 'club' schemes; and a new old scheme, the author of which must have been an old maid, for it is now, 'No reasonable offer refused.' I will quote extracts from a few of these ads, omitting names and addresses of their authors.

"A cut of an upright piano, labeled 'Was $700, now $650'; a cut of a player-piano labeled 'Was $1,000, now $250';

"Thirty days' free trial. No money down. $1.00 per week. Free course of music lessons by a leading conservatory. Your favorite pianos at less than cost of the raw materials used in their construction.

"Railroad fare paid to out-of-town customers.

"I know of a piano dealer who advertised a 'sale,' and in his opening ad on Saturday, had a cut of a Weber upright piano, labeled, 'Was $600, now $395'; another cut, illustrating a Steinway upright piano, labeled, 'Was $750, now $115.' The sale was to begin at 9:00 o'clock Monday morning, and a lady telephoned Saturday afternoon at 5:00 o'clock that she would take the Steinway. The dealer answered that the instrument would not be placed on sale until 11:00 o'clock Monday morning. At five minutes to nine Monday morning, she called at the store, and was then informed that the piano was sold. But the advertisements of both the Steinway and the Weber were continued for several weeks, and when one party sent in a money order for $35 in payment for the Weber, and another party sent in a money order for $115 for the Steinway, it was claimed that both instruments were sold, but they declined to give the names and addresses of the purchasers. As a matter of fact, these two pianos were never in stock.

"In another instance, where a 'Special Sale Artist' was employed, he published various cuts to represent pianos of standard make. One of these was labeled 'Steinway,' and instead of reading 'Was $550, now $175,' it read, 'Worth $550, now $175.' When a customer called to see this Steinway he was told that it had been sold, and when pressed for details, the dealer gave the name and address of an out-of-town purchaser which, upon investigation, proved to be fictitious.

"Now let us turn our attention to 'The Club Artists.' He says: '500 Club members united in One Big Purchase; that these pianos have been sold regularly by leading dealers everywhere at $400 and even $425, and that the club piano is worth every penny of it; but if you join the 500 club, the price is only $267. Pay $5 cash and $6 per month. $47 saved if cash is paid. Generosity seems to be the chief asset of the 'Club Artist.' He gives every member excursion rates on through cars, with free sleepers, free dinners, free drinks, free cigars, free life insurance (which I understand has been declared illegal), and a free piano if he dies. The only truthful statements in the Club Artist's advertisements are the price and terms. The balance is absolutely untrue. We all know that the club is not a club; that it is a myth as the pot of gold at the end of a rainbow; that the real value of the club piano is not $275 or $400 or $425; that a piano of equal value can be obtained any time without the club excuse, right around the two hundred dollar mark. It is the 'Club Artist's' grossly exaggerated and misleading statements that are so harmful to the trade in general."

Comment is unnecessary. The National Association of Piano Merchants of America is an old and influential trade organization and includes all the prominent houses in the trade. The Schiller piano is never featured in special sales, "clubs," puzzle contests, etc. It's a reliable piano and sold at an honest price.

MANY GUNNERS WILL BE HERE TOMORROW

Annual Tournament of Janesville Gun Club Will be Biggest Event of Kind Ever Held in This Section.

At their new grounds at Washington street and Grand avenue, the Janesville Gun club will hold its annual gun tournament tomorrow. The tournament is to be an all day shoot under the rules of the Interstate association for the Encouragement of Trap Shooting, and will be the highest affair of its kind ever held in this section of the country.

Besides the members of the local gun club it is expected that about seventy gunners, professional and amateurs from all parts of the state and northern Illinois, will be in attendance at the tourney. Special arrangements have been made by the gun club for the entertainment of its guests, and the tournament gives promise of being one of the most successful in the state. Two automatic traps have been installed at the new grounds, and these will be used for tomorrow's event, with the White Flyer targets. For the accommodation of the gunners, standard makes of shells and loads will be kept on the grounds, and meals will be served at the shooting grounds. A large tent, 24x24 feet in size, has been put up.

The shooting will commence at half past nine o'clock tomorrow morning and will be continued through the day. There will be ten regular events, of fifteen targets each, and the shoot under the Squier Money-back system for the fifty dollars donated by the Interstate association for this encouragement of trap shooting. Besides these there may be sweepstakes extra events, optional with the club, however, and three special events, eligibility for the Squier Money-back system event will be dependent on having taken part in all of the ten regular events.

Some of the best known professionals in the country will be here for the tournament, besides some of the most expert amateur shots from Wisconsin and nearby states. Of the professionals, H. A. Patterson and L. A. Matthews of Milwaukee, are already booked, and Ed Sannard and others equally well known will arrive tonight or tomorrow morning. The officers of the gun club who have had charge of the arrangements are W. E. Lawyer, president; W. H. Frey, vice-president; H. L. McNamara, treasurer; L. L. Nickerson, secretary.

Pasowia's Winter Roost.
The hereditary habit of the peacocks of roosting for the night in trees sometimes forces upon them considerable discomfort. After selecting a roosting place the birds return to it each night; apparently the same ones without ever deserting the site. Usually in the same tree. Once during a heavy snowstorm Dr. Blair directed my attention to two male peacocks that had selected a big oak tree near his office window as a perching place. The snow had fallen during the night, to a depth of about 10 inches, forming a wall on each side of the sleeping birds, which completely arched over their backs. As the heat of their bodies melted the snow the water gradually saturated their lighter feathers and formed a tiny coronet of ice on their heads. As we watched them they stood erect as if to learn just what the prospect of moving might be. This effort probably convinced them that an attempted flight to the ground meant a tumble and not a fly, for they promptly settled down again for another nap.—Dumb Animals.

Intemperance Actor's Dane.
Edmund Keen, who revived the fortunes of Drury Lane and wrung from Coleridge the appreciative comment that to see him act was like reading Shakespeare by lightning, never drank before a performance. LAYING NEW FOUNDATIONS.

"Somebody has been trying to find out what the farmers of the country are doing with their increased wealth. They have had ten years of higher prices, and by no means all of it has gone into the increased cost of production. Literally they have organized thousands of banks, improved millions of dwellings, and put hundreds of millions of dollars back into the betterment of their methods, their machinery and into the education of their families.

"But nothing more fundamental has been done in this decade to put the agriculture of the country upon a secure foundation than the improvement of the highways. Last year in the single state of Tennessee thirty counties voted $3,000,000 for this purpose. That is only one of many commonwealths in which faith in good roads has caused the people who produce the annual increment of $10,000,000,000 worth of wealth to be more contented and happy in their lot because of the better facilities for communication with the rest of the world."

—Exchange.
The farmers have discovered that money invested in good roads pays liberal interest through increased valuation of farm property, as well as good returns through improved facilities for reaching the local market.

When a man buys a house in town he finds that it pays to locate in a block where the streets and sidewalks are in good condition. The time is near when the man who buys a farm will be influenced by the roads in the neighborhood. Good roads are an asset to any community.

It is well for the nation that the farmers are prosperous, for agriculture, in this land, is the foundation of national prosperity. The wealth that comes in through this channel means something in the way of stability because it is not squandered.

Failures are constantly occurring in the commercial and industrial world, and extravagance and recklessness is responsible in many instances. The average man on a salary lives up to his income, owns a automobile and kicks about the high cost of living.

There are some farmers who have a right to full because of shiftlessness and lack of intelligence, but these are the exception. The bankrupt farmer is a novelty, for as a class, thrift and economy are prominent characteristics, and these elements contribute to financial success.

It was said of the primary election in Ohio, the other day, that the farmers were too busy to spend time to vote. When the circumstances are considered that is more of a compliment than criticism, for there is nothing or glory nor profit in the campaign now being conducted.

The average farmer is not a politician. He is not annoyed by trusts and combines, and is satisfied to trail along in the procession and attend to his own business. The forces which trouble the agitator and near-statesman do not annoy him because he is absorbed in dealing with the great forces of nature, and it often keeps him guessing to know how to meet the whims of erratic seasons.

The forefathers planned wisely when they placed the date of general elections in November, knowing that the farmer would find time to vote after the harvest was gathered. The summer primary is of modern design, and one of the fruits of "representative government." It was concocted for the towns and cities, but more especially for patriots who aspire to be leaders, and their expectations have been realized.

NOT ANY FOR WISCONSIN.

William Barnes, Jr., the president's campaign manager in New York, displayed his ignorance of Wisconsin politics when he invited the Badger State delegation to aid in the temporary organization of the Chicago convention by supporting Elihu Root for chairman. The request came to Governor McGovern, an chairman of the delegation, who replied by denouncing Senator Root as a Tory, and Mr. Barnes has not yet recovered.
Wisconsin has been slightly irregular for some time, and under the circumstances the men now in political control could hardly be expected to lend any aid to the national party organization. When the leaders of insurgency herald their campaign with the war cry, "Anything but Taft!" the sentiment was heartily endorsed by the Wisconsin contingent, and the campaign has been conducted with that end in view.

When Colonel Roosevelt whistled his headgear into the ring, there was a scurrying to cover, and a liberal percentage of the "Anything but Taft!" patriots hunted on the colonel's hand wagon at the first jump. The Badger State leaders, inspired by confidence in their candidate, are hoping that in the shuffle the tail will be able to wag the dog.

The only excuse for Mr. Barnes is ignorance. The average New Yorker was never as far west as Buffalo, and the intelligent city press, on which he depends for information, is equally ignorant of conditions in the west.
The campaign in which the country is now engaged, will result in bringing the two sections nearer together, and in the end will result in good.

AS WALL STREET SEES IT.

"Wall Street now concludes that Taft is gone as a presidential possibility, and Wall Street is rejoiced that with him goes Mr. Wickersham, who is regarded as one having a greater knowledge of law and its intricacies than of common-sense justice.
"Not only are odds offered that Roosevelt is nominated, but wagers are offered even that Roosevelt gets the nomination on the first ballot.
"The Taft family can take satisfaction that a large campaign contribution will not be expected from Ohio this year. It is said in that state that it cost Charles P. Taft $1,400,000 four years ago to secure for his brother the republican nomination, notwithstanding that he was then the candidate of Mr. Roosevelt."

The Wall Street Journal thus sizes up the sentiment of the street, and while Roosevelt is not popular, at the great money center, some consolation is found in the fact that the defeat of Taft means the removal of his Attorney General Wickersham.

The president's cabinet is so legally top-heavy that it has had much to do with the unpopularity of his administration. The purely legal mind is a cold-blooded proposition, and a household composed entirely of this class of minds produces a chilly atmosphere.

The best exponents of law are the men who temper justice with common sense, and the choicest compliment that comes to them is expressed in the brief statement, "Settled out of court." The president's cabinet is not noted for this class of talent, and so the nation has been kept in constant turmoil.

While London is in the throes of a labor strike which threatens famine, in some sections of the city, New York is having a similar experience with its cooks and waiters, and many of the hotels and restaurants are practically closed. The English situation is the most serious, and the authorities are confronted with the question of how to feed the hungry with no food supply in sight. The dockmen and longshoremen refuse to handle incoming freight and the city may be obliged to resort to extreme measures in dealing with the situation.

The screen ordinance will be so thoroughly appreciated by the men who opposed it that they will have no desire to see it repealed. Six days of sixteen hours each is long enough to run any business. The keg and bottle trade may need a little attention, as some of the boat-houses along the river, inside the city limits, contained a boisterous crowd last Sunday night. The saloon men are not responsible, but the men who buy should understand that the law has something to say about where the goods shall not be used.

The city of Chihuahua, Mexico, more or less familiar to Janesville people, is practically deserted by the American population which, before the rebellion, was 1,000 strong. War script is being issued to pay army expenses, and foreigners are compelled to take it in exchange for good money. President Diaz may have outlived his usefulness, but the nation has failed to produce a successor who is able to do anything with its lawless subjects. The country needs a guardian, more than anything else, at the present time.

The state of Nebraska became infected with the primary law interference and extended her law to take in national committee men for political

From the Hickeyville Clarion.
When the Democrats who, Hank Purdy gets named to show his joy and when they lose he gets named to show his sorrow, Hank also celebrates every birth and death in his family, and when he can't find any excuse for celebrating he celebrates without one. Last week he celebrated the anniversary of the opening of the Erie canal, but that didn't make any difference, as he was just so many celebrations to work in before the end of the year.

John D. Rockefeller said he got rich by starting in to save pennies. Hod Patera took his advice. Hod has got $3.87 already and he has only been saving them for four years.

Mrs. Anne Frisby wore the art and crafts lamp shade downtown the other day by mistake, thinking it was her hat, and nobody else noticed the difference either.

Abner Jones says he expects to get a wife down to the city, but there are them as says that he had better pick out some single woman.

Rev. Hudson asked Lem Higgins what motive he had for becoming an engineer on the railroad and Lem said it was a locomotive. The darn joker!

I never saw a man go through a gate but what he tried to kick it open with his foot, or a woman who didn't fuss around and look for the latch.
Perhaps some day somebody with a lot of brain power will invent a square lead pencil that won't roll off the table, but I doubt it.
They say politicians are going to be more expensive, but it is hard to see how they can ever be much more expensive than they are in some of them high-toned cafes.

A man by the name of Howell was elected by the republicans, and he is now on hand in Chicago demanding the seat held by Victor Roosevelt of Omaha, whose term does not expire until the close of the convention. Mr. Howell has evidently associated with Mr. Bryan. Nebraska statesmen are nothing if not previous.

The Cuban situation is not at all encouraging. The negro population is in rebellion, and seems determined to rule or ruin. Many of the plantations have been looted, and much property destroyed. The local government claims to be able to quell the disturbance, but unless more radical measures are soon adopted, the United States will be obliged to interfere. Battleships and troops are ready for action on short notice, and their services are likely to be needed.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

LONG DISTANCE CRUELTY.
You can sit in a leather cushioned office chair in New York and kill a man in Lincoln, Neb.

You can commit a crime by telegraph or by long distance telephone. And not only is it easier to murder men in this way, but it is much safer than if you were on the ground.

What do I mean?
Well, say a switchman is killed in the railroad yards at Indianapolis because of lack of proper equipment or a brakeman is crippled at Cheyenne because of the lack of safety appliances required by law. Who committed the crime?

The division superintendent? Probably he has called the attention of the general manager to this very lack. And probably the manager has urged the board of directors to provide for the equipment. Who then is guilty?

The men who sit about the mahogany table in New York.
And the crimes are committed for the basest of all motives—money. The men in charge must make dividends or resign. The stockholders must have their money, though it be wrung from quivering human flesh.

Or, again:
Here are legal infants sorting coal over a long chute and are being slowly choked to death, or for lack of timber in the mine slate falls upon the head of a family and kills him, or for lack of ventilation men die of tuberculosis, or a fire breaks out in a mine room, and there are no cutoff doors, and miners die in the tunnels.

Who is to blame?
The pit boss or the superintendent? In all likelihood the owner's attention has been called to the needs, and he has replied that "more economies must be used in operation of the plant."

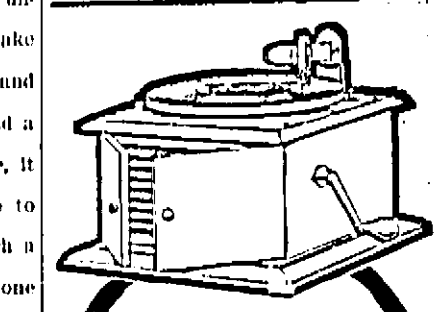

Or, again:
Here are hundreds of children under legal age working in a big cotton factory. There is a law on the statute books against child labor, but it is not enforced.

Who is guilty?
Somebody miles away who is sending his family to Newport or to Europe for the summer.

Criminals?
Think you they are the only thieves and murderers who slouch through back alleys or who fill the benches of the police court or who scowl through latticed steel windows?

Advantages of Wit.
Man could direct his ways by plain reason, and support his life by tasteless food; but God has given us wit, and flavor, and brightness, and laughter, and perfume, to enliven the days of man's pilgrimage, and to "charm his pained steps over the burning marble."—Sydney Smith.

Do Your Duty.
"Do your whole duty and keep your mouth shut." is an up-to-date variant of "trust in God and keep your powder dry."

GRANTED MORE TIME TO FINISH BRIDGE

Council at Meeting This Afternoon Gave Company Until July 15 to Complete Fourth Avenue Structure.

At the request of Eugene Runyan, president of the Central States Bridge company, the council this afternoon extended the time for the completion of the Fourth Avenue bridge to July 15. The time for the completion of the bridge has expired according to the terms of the contract and former extension. Mr. Runyan and his local superintendent, Mr. Cummins, appeared in person at the meeting of the council. Mr. Runyan requested two months' time but the council thought there had already been too much delay and that if sufficient men were put to work and extra effort put forth the bridge could be finished in less time. The delay, said Mr. Runyan, had been unavoidable, and in the main due to bad weather. They had contemplated working off the ice during the winter, but because of the water dropping away from underneath as it was used by the power house, the ice could not bear up the necessary weight. He has advertised for more men and will use as many as he can find. Three experienced divers at the company had been in Janesville in the last three weeks in an effort to hasten the work.

Chief of the Fire Department Henry Klein submitted his quarterly report which was read by the city clerk, accepted and placed on file. Chief Klein reported that there had been forty-one alarms in the period covered by the report, and two very heavy losses, the fire in the Kimball furniture store, and the Doty mill. The insured loss in the former was $7,763.85, and in the latter, $9,000. Four of the fire horses were not in as good condition as they should be and two should be replaced. The fire alarm system was unreliable because of defective and decayed cross-arms and poles. Five hundred feet of hose was under pressure because the couplings blew off under pressure. The wrecking outfit was in bad condition and replacement was necessary. Chief Klein renewed his recommendation for an addition of four more paid men, and also recommended that the firemen be given regular days off. Slight replacements of apparatus parts were also said to be necessary.

Mayor Fathers, after the report of Chief Klein had been read, said that a number of the recommendations in it were already being considered. The city clerk was instructed to order a dump cart for use in the city stone quarry, and the superintendent of streets was directed to serve notice on property holders of the west side of Caroline street to build standard cement aprons. The bond of the Clark Piano company was accepted, the sureties being A. H. and T. A. Clark. The treasurer's books were ordered audited for the year ending July 1, 1912.

The meeting was called at 1:30 o'clock today as Mayor Fathers left for Madison early in the afternoon. Adjournment was made until Friday afternoon.

PLAYGROUND SURVEY

OF CITY PROJECTED

Committee Directed to Report on Local

Situation—Much Interest

Shown at Meeting Last Night.

Significant progress in the movement to establish public children's playgrounds in the city was made at the meeting of its friends and supporters at Library hall last night. The Rev. Father Henry Willmann was appointed chairman of a committee with the power of appointing to its membership a representative from each of the churches and from as many other organizations as possible. This committee was empowered to make a survey of the city with respect to available playground sites, to submit a report of their findings and also to set a date for a public mass meeting to be held as soon as can conveniently be arranged.

The Rev. T. D. Williams, pastor of the Carroll Methodist church, was elected temporary chairman of the meeting last evening and the Rev.

Father Henry Willmann, secretary.

Father Willmann then stated the object of the meeting to be the appointment of a preliminary committee to organize the citizens into a playground league. He then reported on the correspondence he had had with the Russell Sage Foundation, the American Civic association, the Playground Association and the University Extension Division and read a letter he had received from Prof. E. J.

Ward concerning his appearance at a public meeting in this city.

Deep enthusiasm for the plan and disposition to begin active work toward its accomplishment was manifested by all present. It was the consensus of opinion that a beginning should be made this summer; that an investigation should be made of the local situation and its needs and possibilities set forth. There was no discussion as to the need of playground facilities that was assumed to exist.

The discussion was confined to ways and means of obtaining them in as short a time as possible. Those who took part in the meeting were: the Rev. T. J. Roberts, pastor of the United Brethren church; Malcolm Jeffries

Mr. and Mrs. Stowe Loveloy, the Rev.

Dr. David Denton; Miss Kate S. Nelson, principal of the Webster school;

the Rev. T. D. Williams; and the Rev.

Father Henry Willmann. The Rev. Father

Maloney attended as the representative of St. E. E. Kelly of St. Patrick's church. A number of other citizens were present and promised to do all in their power to forward the playground movement.

EDUCATES EVERYONE EVERY DAY

The Gazette Has Inaugurated a Most Unique Instruction Plan.

AT-THE-ELBOW LIBRARY

The Knowledge That You Need Every Day and Every Hour in One Book of Reasonable Size.

Employers and educators of Janesville and Southern Wisconsin learn that the most lamentable lack of learning with which they have to contend is the prevailing ignorance of the correct use of the English language. The means to effectively remedy this deplorable condition has been a pedagogic puzzle. The Gazette believes that it offers its readers today the solution in the book of educational work ever embodied in one volume of convenient size, the New Websterian 1912 Dictionary, Illustrated.

Literature of many volumes, universities of many departments, schools, colleges and classes and all the educational army and impediments are of no use to the average person who can not or will not go to them when information or instruction is required, but The Gazette offers a comprehensive course of at-the-elbow education to everyone.

The knowledge that you need every day and every hour is brought to you in one book of reasonable size to which you can readily refer without moving from your chair or desk. Gradually you will acquire more and more learning without being aware that any effort is being expended. A vast fund of information will be at your elbow.

The Gazette is confident that the intelligent clientele made up of the patrons of this paper will eagerly grasp this opportunity, and so has secured a limited edition of this unique work just issued.

A glance at this book will convince you that the proposition is worthy of investigation, for it is in black limp leather, it looks like a Bible. Open the covers and you find that the book is profusely illustrated and that each word defined stands out in blackface type, making it easy to find what you want when you want it.

This dictionary is NOT published by the original publishers of Webster's Dictionary or by their successors. It has been revised and brought up to the present date in accordance with the greatest authority from leading universities. Dr. Harry Thurston Peck being its Editor in Chief. It contains all the words of the English language that are not peculiarly appropriate to a dictionary of technical terms. The spelling and pronunciation of words are given, and the use of capitals and small letters. The book gives the past tense and participles of all verbs not regularly formed by the addition of "d" and "ing" and "ed". The pronunciation of each word is plainly indicated by phonetic spelling, and the definitions are presented in a most comprehensive yet concise, accurate and reliable manner.

As a preface to the dictionary proper is a treatise on abbreviations of the parts of speech and their grammatical compositions and derivation. As a means of promoting the correctness of speech, both spoken and written, an analysis of the "Principles of Grammar" is given. The rules adopted by the Simplified Spelling Board are given under the head of words spelled in two ways, of which the Board of Simplified Spelling recommends the simpler spelling. There is also a complete key to pronunciation, which is invaluable to one who would speak the language properly.

Every new word recently coined and adopted by custom has been included. For example, the word "Oxolite," taken from Prof. Oeder, who would chloroform people at the age of 45, when, according to his theory, they have outlived their usefulness. Also there are aviator and biplane and brainstom and stavaine and taxicab and equilibrator, all of which have recently come into use by stress of necessity.

The illustrations are the most complete, elaborate and expensive that have ever appeared in a dictionary. They include colored and monochrome plates and colored charts. The dictionary is printed on strong Bible paper from new plates. An important feature is the large type.

If you would enrich your vocabulary this is the book for you to get. It includes proverbs and colloquial expressions, foreign words and phrases, christian names of men and women, the metric system of weights and measures, the value of foreign coins in the United States, time differences all over the world, the electoral vote, the latest census of the United States, language of flowers and gems, the origin and meaning of the names of states, commercial and legal terms, famous characters, decisive battles of the world's history, and, in fact, nothing seems to have been overlooked.

The dictionary is in three styles of binding, and all are included in the offer made through The Gazette.

No. 1 is a beautiful book bound in full limp leather, flexible and stamped in gold on back and sides. It is printed on strong Bible paper with red edges and with rounded corners. It makes a handsome appearance and is durable. This book would ornament any library or desk. It is compact and small enough not to be cumbersome.

No. 2 is the same book as No. 1, except in style of binding. It is in half leather, with olive edges and square corners.

No. 3 is bound in plain cloth. It is printed on the same paper, but does not contain the beautiful colored plates and charts which illustrate the other two volumes. It is complete as to contents.

Everybody needs and should have this latest dictionary. Read the coupon to be found on another page of this issue and clip it today.

PHYSICIAN ADVISES CUTICURA REMEDIES

For Eczema, Patient's Wrist and Shin Itched Like Poison. Scratched Until They Bled. Says: "Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured Me."

"Four years ago I had places break out on my wrist and on my shin which would itch and burn like hell, and scratching them would not seem to give any relief. When the trouble first began, my wrist and shin itched like poison. I would scratch those places until my hands would bleed. I could get no relief. Afterward the places would scab over, and the skin underneath would look red and swollen. Sometimes it would begin to itch again. I would scratch them until I would wake me from my sleep, and I would have to go through the scratching ordeal again. I consulted my physician in regard to it, and he pronounced it "dry eczema." I used an ointment which the doctor gave me, but it did no good. Then he advised me to try the Cuticura Remedies. As this trouble has been in our family for years, and is considered hereditary, I felt anxious to try to heal it off. I got the Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills, and they seemed to be just what I needed. "The disease was making great headway on my system until I got the Cuticura Remedies which have cleared my skin of the great test. From the time the eczema healed four years ago, until now, I have never felt any of its pain, and I am thankful to the Cuticura Soap and Ointment which certainly cured me. I always use the Cuticura Soap for toilet, and I hope other sufferers from skin diseases will use the Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) Irena Hutchinson, Three Rivers, Mich., Mar. 10, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, a liberal sample of each, with 25¢ book on the skin and scalp will be sent free, on application to Folio, Inc., 100 N. 3rd St., St. Paul, Minn., U.S.A.

PRaises Catalogue HANSON FURNITURE

Furniture Journal in Recent Number Printed 'Glowing Description of Local Company's Book.

The "Furniture Journal" in a recent number speaks of the Hanson Furniture Company's new catalogue in glowing terms. The book is reproduced herewith. This book was the product of the printing department of The Gazette and the praise allotted is proof of the ability and facilities of this department to handle the highest grades of printed matter. "A New Hanson Catalogue." "The Hanson Furniture Company, Janesville, Wis., brought out a catalogue very recently which is by far the most sizable and splendid book the company has ever mailed. It is an affair of 104 by 14 inches, with a double cover, the outside one of which, also the heavier and with a deckel at the bottom, extends over the inner one and the body of the book, which runs sixty-four pages. It is catalogue No. 22, and is the company's offering for 1912. As well as being the largest by far the Hanson people ever sent out, it is complete to a degree not attaching to any of its predecessors, and shows page after page of complete suits, including chairs. The cover for its decoration the figures of the salesman, the table and the interested customer which has become so familiar to the trade through the medium of the trade papers, enclosed in a neat border, along with two simple, hand-lettered lines "Hanson Tables," while the inner cover and the title page carry cleverly designed monograms of the company name. The pages throughout are in two colors, the headlines in red and the body in black, and in full at the bottom, running over a line in the center of which appears a pattern of the line in miniature. The stock is heavy and good. Editor Gibbons has managed to get in a little good work in his usual clever way, and he has placed it just in advance of the first rank. There are no waste words. It's Gibbons' way to get right down to business with little or no preliminaries, hence when he says this it may be understood that he knows something about what he talks. "The receipt of this catalogue is an invitation to you to send us your orders. We offer a wide variety of matched suits in two characteristic American styles, the Colonial and the modern Arts and Crafts or designs of Mission origin, toward which American tastes run strongly. The woods are of the highest grade, carefully selected and finished to bring out all the delicate grain markings to perfection. The beauty of the wood is in the grain as well as the color. There is no part of our work that has brought forth more favorable comment than the finish—it's beautiful, and it lasts. The stoutest construction is none too strong for an extension table. Any table that is made with a divided pedestal, no matter how locked, sooner or later will acquire untidiness and an unhealthily gap and sag. It can't help it. Hanson tables do not divide, but they have the simplest, firmest and most satisfactory support for full extension ever made. The pedestal is solid—the strongest spot in the table, not the weakest, as in divided tables." The catalogue is a most creditable piece of work viewed from whatever standpoint, and is well calculated to prove a prime stimulant in sales for the dealer who has it at ready hand."

SIDEWALK SKETCHES.

THE SHORTSTOP. (By Howard L. Rann.) THE shortstop is a loose-flopped cog in a baseball team who is hired for the purpose of preventing the pitcher from blowing up with a loud dejection in the seventh inning. His business is to talk to the pitcher in a conversational tone of voice and stop ground hits with any portion of his person which happens to get in the way. The best shortstops are those which have been equipped by nature with metal shins and a 2 per cent solution of gray matter. The old-fashioned shortstop is six feet tall, weighs 160 pounds, and is folded up like a pocket rule when not in use, has become merely the flimsy of a dream. The modern shortstop is a short, squat individual, with about as much clearance as a setting hen, and can cover more ground than a street sprinkler. In addition to catching everything that comes his way, from a Texas leaguer to the longball, he is expected to be able to throw the ball from a sitting posture without killing anybody in the bleachers. A shortstop is said to "boot" the ball when he mislays it under one of his feet and executes a neat pirouette on its remains. After this has happened four or five times in one game the booter is generally led home in a back and treated for mental strabismus and the rables. Some shortstops are able to throw from any point of the compass without marring their anatomical symmetry, while others are obliged to set themselves in the expectant attitude of a man with a crick in the back and take careful aim at first base. Some parents would rather have their son take a course on the reel organ than learn to play shortstop, but this is a mistake. A good shortstop with spreading feet and unobtrusive table manners, lives a soft and luxurious life. When the season closes he takes a bath and hibernates at some fashionable club, where the board runs as high as $2.50 per week, and he has a change of vest for every working hour of the day. He is not to be sneezed at as a breadwinner.

A Great Leverless Cultivator You Can RIDE—You Can WALK!

Farmers tell us it's a wonderful labor saver. It's a "Walker." It's a "Rider." Works one way as well as the other. No riding cultivator can equal it. Bigger, better crops! Easier grown.

Here, Mr. Farmer, in an unusual kind of cultivator perfection—a cultivator that combines two big principles and makes good on both. No more lame backs, aching arms and blistered hands. No more slipped weeds and ruined hills that cut down your crops. Whether you walk or ride, this marvelous machine, with a mighty small effort on your part, "jumps" stray hills, saves the corn, gets the weeds and quickly rids its shovels of trash. It's the

Rock Island PERFECTION Cultivator

Only Self-Balancing, Leverless, Combined Riding and Walking Cultivator Made.

It has all the efficiency of the old "walking" cultivator, with none of its tiresome disadvantages. It has all the advantages of the usual "riding" type cultivator, but without any complications—lifting levers, balancing levers, depression levers, regulating levers, adjusting levers, etc., etc. Absolutely no comparison. There isn't a letter on it.

Automatic Balanced The Perfection is an automatically balanced machine. It dips into depressions. Not a "sawtooth" arrangement that makes it hard to balance. It balances itself. Gangs up or down. No levers to handle. Any 9 or 10 year old kid can handle it. When tired of riding get off and walk. Tip the seat forward out of the way—adjust the handles to suit. And you have a perfect walker.

A Corn Saver. The corn hills you save by using the Perfection will quickly pay the difference between the Perfection price and what you can get for your old cultivator. Come in and see this tool at once—this week, sure.

MODE OF TAKING MILK DIET.

"In taking the milk diet, is it better to take a glass every four or to take a larger quantity at regular meal times?" a reader asks. It is first advisable to determine whether the milk diet is "indicated" in any given case, for there are conditions and temperaments in which an exclusive milk diet proves to be injurious. And whether it is better to take the milk in small quantities often or in larger at longer intervals, depends on the conditions, as the daily quantity must be regulated, but as a general rule, there should be an interval of three hours between the meals. Milk should be sipped, not swallowed hurriedly in large mouthfuls. Buttermilk is preferable in many cases.

A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST

By GENE STRATTON-PORTER

Copyright, 1909, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

"All the neighbors have suspected and been down on me. I didn't had a friend. I've always felt guilty of his death. I've seen him go down a thousand times, plain as ever you did. Many's the night I've stood on the other bank of that pool and listened to you, and I tried to throw myself in to keep from hearing you, but I didn't dare. I know God would send me to burn forever, but I'd better do it, for now he has set the burning on my body, and every hour it is slowly eating the life out of me. The doctor says it's a cancer."

Mrs. Comstock exhaled a long breath. Her grip on the hoe relaxed, and her stature lifted to towering height.

"I didn't know or care when I came here just what I did," she said. "But my way is beginning to clear. If the guilt of your soul has come to a head in a cancer on your body, it looks as if the Almighty didn't need any of my help in mending out his punishments. I really couldn't fix up anything to come anywhere near that. If you are going to burn until your life goes out with that sort of fire, you don't owe me anything."

"If you will gather a lot of red clover bloom and make a tea strong as tea of it and drink quarts I think likely it will help you, if you are not too far gone. Anyway, it will cool your blood and make the burning easier to bear."

Then she swiftly walked home. Enter the lonely cabin she could not, neither could she sit outside and think. She attacked a bed of beets and hoed until the perspiration ran from her face and body, then she began on the potatoes. When she was too tired to take another stroke she bathed and put on dry clothing. In searching her dress she noticed her husband's carefully preserved clothing lying on the wall. She gathered it in a great armload and carried it out to the swamp. Piece by piece she pitched into the green water of the quagmire all those articles she had dusted carefully and fought moths from for years and stood watching as it slowly sucked them down. She went back to her room and gathered every scrap that had in any way belonged to Robert Comstock, excepting his gun and revolver, and threw it into the swamp. Then for the first time she set her door wide open.

She was too weary now to do more, but an urging unrest drove her. She wanted Elmore. It seemed to her she never could wait until the girl came and delivered her judgment. At last in an effort to get nearer to her, Mrs. Comstock climbed the stairs and stood looking around Elmore's room. It was very unfamiliar. The pictures were strange to her. Commencement had filled it with packages and bundles. The walls were covered with coupons, moths and dragon flies were pinned about.

Under the bed she could see a half dozen large white boxes. She did not know what they contained. She pulled out one and lifted the lid. The bottom was covered with a sheet of thin cork, and on long pins sticking in it were dozens of great, velvet winged moths. Each one was labeled, always there were two of a kind, in many cases four, showing under and upper wings of both male and female. They were of every color and shape.

Mrs. Comstock carefully closed and replaced the boxes and again stood looking around the room. This time her eyes rested on some books she did not remember having seen before, so she picked up one and found that it was a moth book. She glanced over the first pages and was soon eagerly reading. When the text reached the classification of species she laid it down, took up another and read its introductory chapters. Then she found some papers and studied them.

She went downstairs thinking deeply. Being unable to sit still and having nothing else to do, she glanced at the clock and prepared supper. She went out and sat on the front doorstep watching night creep all around her. She started eagerly as the gate creaked, and saw only a shadowy figure coming down the walk.

"Katharine, Margaret and Elmore passed where I was working this afternoon, and Margaret got out of the carriage and called me to the fence. She told me what she had done. I've come to say to you that I am sorry. She has heard me threaten to do it a good many times, but I never would have got it done. I'd give a good deal if I could undo it, but I can't, so I've come to tell you how sorry I am."

"You've got something to be sorry for," said Mrs. Comstock, "but likely we ain't thinking of the same thing. It hurts me less to know the truth than to live in ignorance. Now, if Elmore will forgive me we will take a new start and see what we can make out of what is left of life. If she won't then it will be my time to learn what suffering really means."

CHAPTER XVII.

Wherein Mrs. Comstock Possesses the Limberlost.

THEY shook hands, and Elmore went down the road, while Mrs. Comstock entered the cabin. She went to the supper table, but she could not swallow food. Then she heard the front screen. She reached the middle door as Elmore touched the foot of the stairs.

"Hurry and get ready, Elmore," she said. "Your supper is almost spoiled now."

Elmore closed the stair door behind her and for the first time in her life threw the heavy lever which barred out any one from downstairs. Mrs. Comstock heard the thud and knew what it meant. She recoiled slightly and caught the doorknob for support. For a few minutes she clung there, then sank to the nearest chair. After a long time she arose and, stumbling half blindly, she put the food in the cupboard and covered the table. She took the lamp in one hand, the butter in the other and started for the spring house. Something brushed close by her face, and she looked just in time to see a winged creature rise above the cabin and sail away.

"I got to go where they are if I get them," muttered Mrs. Comstock. She hurried into the cabin, set the lamp on the table and stood thinking deeply. She went to the barn for the pair of stout high boots she used in feeding stock in deep snow. Throwing the boots by the back door, she climbed to the loft over the spring house and hunted an old box of buttons and one of first manufacture for oil. Both of these she cleaned and filled. She listened until everything upstairs had been still for over a half hour. By that time it was after 11 o'clock. Then she took the good lantern from the kitchen, the two old ones, a handful of matches, a ball of twine, and went from the cabin, softly closing the door. She skirted the back of the garden, crossed a field and came out on the road. Soon she reached the Limberlost. She hunted until she found the old trail, then followed it, stumbling over logs and through climbing vines and grasses.

By and by she began to see the warring light of something she thought near the right size. She had no idea where she was, but she stopped, lighted a lantern and hung it as high as she could reach. A little distance away she placed the second and then the third. Something large as a small bird was fluttering around. Mrs. Comstock began to perspire, while her hand shook wildly. She began to pray aloud.

"This way, oh, Lord! Make it come this way! Please! You know how I need it! Oh, Lord, send it lower!"

The moth hesitated at the first light, then slowly, easily it came toward the second, as if following a path of air. It touched a leaf near the lantern and settled. As Mrs. Comstock reached for it a thin yellow spray wet her hand and the surrounding leaves. When its wings raised above its back, her fingers came together. She held the moth to the light. It was nearer brown than yellow, and she remembered having seen some like it in the boxes that afternoon. It was not the one needed to complete the collection, but Elmore might want it, so Mrs. Comstock held on. Just then the Almighty was kind or nature was sufficient, as you look at it, for following the law of its being when disturbed, the moth again threw the spray by which some suppose it attracts its kind, and liberally sprinkled Mrs. Comstock's dress front and arms. From that instant, she became the best moth bait ever invented.

Moths were coming. She had one in each hand. They were not yellow, and she did not know what to do. She glanced around to try to discover some way to keep what she had, and her throbbing heart stopped and every muscle stiffened. There was the dim outline of a crouching figure not two yards away, and a pair of eyes that owner thought hidden caught the light in a cold stream. Her first impulse was to scream and fly for life. Before her lips could open a big moth alighted on her breast, while she felt another walking over her hair. All sense of caution deserted her. She did not care to live if she could not replace the yellow moth she had killed. She set her eyes on those among the leaves.

"Here, you!" she cried hoarsely. "I need you! Get yourself out here and help me!"

Pete Carson parted the bushes and stepped into the light.

"Oh, it's you!" said Mrs. Comstock. "I might have known! But you gave me a start. Here, hold these until I make some sort of bag for them. Go away! If you break them I don't guarantee what will happen to you!"

"Pretty fierce, ain't you?" laughed Pete, but he advanced and held out his hands. "For Elmore, I s'pose?"

"Yes," said Mrs. Comstock. "In a mad fit I trampled one this morning, and by the luck of the old boy himself it was the last moth she needed to complete a collection. I got to get another one or die."

Something Large as a Small Bird Was Fluttering Around.

"Then I guess it's your funeral," said Pete. "There ain't a chance in a dozen the right one will come. What color was it?"

"Yellow, and big as a bird."

"The 'Empire' likely," said Pete. "You dig for that kind, and they are not numerous, so's 'at you can smush 'em for fun."

"Well, I can try to get one, anyway," said Mrs. Comstock. "I forgot all about bringing anything to put them in. You take a pinch on their wings until I make a poke."

Mrs. Comstock removed her apron, tearing off the strings. She unfasted and stopped from the skirt of her calico dress. With one apron string she tied about the band and placket. She pulled a wire pin from her hair, stuck it through the other string, and using it as a bodkin ran it around the hem of her skirt. Her fingers flew, and shortly she had a large bag. She put several branches inside to which the moths could cling, closed the mouth partially and held it toward Pete.
